Technology is a ubiquitous presence today and has become an ineluctable part of our daily life. In this digitalized era, our access to the world around is just a click away. Every sphere of human life in this globalized world now revolves around technology. From the day-to-day communication to financial transactions, banking, business dealings, education, shopping, and a lot more, the digital interface has smoothed our routine engagements. In tune with the changing scenario and the growing demands for enhanced productivity, consistency and quality brought about by the rapid technological innovation, the concept of E-governance has been introduced.
