Mediatization of Culture: Emerging Paradigms and Shifts

About the College

Carmel College, Mala since its inception in 1981 has stood for the empowerment and upliftment of rural women. It was raised to the status of 1st Grade College in 1984 and a PG college in 2014. Re-accredited by NAAC with 'A' Grade (Third Cycle) in 2016, the college provides 18 UG Courses including 5 B.Voc programmes, 8 PG Courses and 2 Diploma programmes under Community College. Recently Department of Botany has been upgraded as a Research Centre by the University of Calicut.

About the Department of English

The Department of English started functioning ever since the beginning of the college and the Department was officially inaugurated with the introduction of B.A Functional English Programme in 1998. M.A. English Language and Literature was sanctioned in 2013.

Concept Note

The recent proliferation of media narratives posits pertinent questions regarding the influence and impact of media on our aesthetic, cultural, social, political and economic perspectives. Societies have been distinctively and deliberately reshaped by the institutional and cultural logic of the media.

Mediatization has emerged as a key concept in Media Studies and gives a theoretical framework to understand and analyze the interplay among media, culture and society. Our everyday practices and social relations are very much shaped by mediating technologies and media organizations. The seminar titled Mediatization of Culture: Emerging Paradigms and Shifts tries to explore how different kinds of media mould and frame the discourses of society.

Objectives

- To analyze societal transformations across a variety of domains such as politics, religion, science, education, literature, arts and sports in terms of mediatization.
- To explore how mediatization intersects with or adds to the analysis of globalization, commercialization and urbanization.

The attempt to trace the representation and transformation of culture in its myriad patterns and perspectives in mass media offers ample scope for deliberation and would lead us to unprecedented explorations and expeditions in the field of Media Studies.

Workshop on

“The Elemental Aspects of Research in English Literature and Language”

by

Dr. C.G. Shyamala, Assistant Professor and Research Guide, Mercy College, Palakkad

(22.01.2020) On 22nd January 2020, the Department of English organized a Workshop on “The Elemental Aspects of Research in English Literature and Language.” Dr. C.G. Shyamala, Assistant Professor and Research Guide, PG Department of English and Research Centre for Comparative Studies, Mercy College, Palakkad was the resource person. Her areas of interest include Gender Studies-Masculinities and Femininities, Research Methodology, Literary Theory and Criticism, British Literature- Post-1940 Literature and Cultural Studies.

Dr. C.G. Shyamala stated that literature as study, is divided into two options. The first one is the study of literature as a cultural product for whose interpretation aspects outside the literary work — historical, social, critical, biographical data — must be accounted for. The other is the stylistics option, dealing with the analysis of literary texts by examining their language. The second general purpose is the recent widespread use of literature as a resource for the teaching of the English language. She focused on the dissertation design, qualitative and quantitative data collection methods and general research framework based on the 8th Edition of MLA Handbook of Research Methodology. The participants were keen to do the exercises related to in-text citations and bibliography which would help them to develop a research attitude in moulding their careers.

“IPR (Intellectual Property Rights)”

by

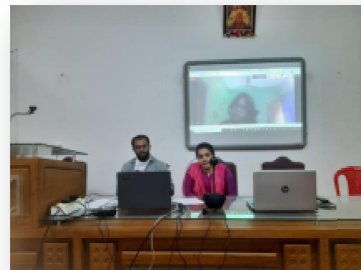

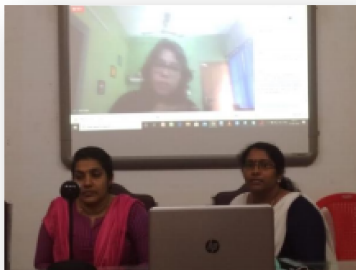

Adv. Sreekala Vivek, Notary Public, High Court, Ernakulam

in collaboration with

Career Guidance and Placement Cell (26-06-2020)

On 26th June 2020, the Department of English and Career Guidance and Placement Cell jointly organized a Webinar on “IPR (Intellectual Property Rights)”. Adv. Sreekala Vivek, Notary Public, High Court, Ernakulam was the Resource Person.

Adv. Sreekala Vivek stated that intellectual property rights (IPR) are legal rights aimed at protecting the creations of the intellect, such as inventions, the appearance of products, literary, artistic and scientific works and signs, among others. She added that the protection of IPR allows the innovator, brand owner, patent holder and copyright holder to benefit from his/her work, labor and investment, which does not mean monopoly of the intellect. Such rights are set out in the International Declaration of Human Rights, which provides for the right to benefit from the protection of the moral and physical interests resulting from the right holder’s work; literal or artistic product. She also explained about the four different types of IP - four distinct types—copyrights, trademarks, patents, and trade secrets. IPR offers due recognition to the creators and inventors.

Webinar on “From Ecology to Ecofeminism: Theory and Praxis”

Organized by the Department of English and ALUMNAE Association(25-06-2020)

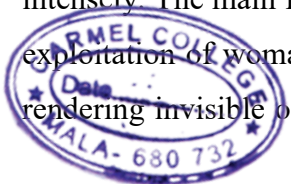

By Dr. Anju E.A., Alumnae and Assistant Professor, Department of English, Sri. C. AchuthaMenon Government College, Thrissur

On 25th June 2020, the Department of English and ALUMNAE Association jointly organized a Webinar on “From Ecology to Ecofeminism: Theory and Praxis” as part of the Litworld Webinar Series. Dr. Anju E.A., Alumnae and Assistant Professor, Department of English, Sri. C. AchuthaMenon Government College, Thrissur was the Resource Person.

The Resource Person explained how women came to articulate feminist and ecological issues. Ecofeminist awareness emerged in the Third World, where environmental problems like droughts, floods, cyclones, deforestation and so on affect people, especially women, earlier and more intensely. The main focus of Ecofeminism is that there is an analogy, similar characteristics between the exploitation of woman and that of nature: the lack of respect for them, the place assigned to them, the rendering invisible of their work, their production and so on. Ecofeminists show that these oppressions are connected, that they reinforce each other in patriarchal culture. But it is through very concrete struggles that they have come to articulate feminist and ecological issues, to intersect the battles against the dominations suffered by women and nature and thus allow their emancipation. The webinar focused on the need to give respect to both women and nature.

On 16th June 2020, the Department of English and ALUMNAE Association jointly organized an International Webinar on “Pandemics, Cultural Lock Downs and Literature.” As part of the Litworld Webinar Series. Dr. Arunlal K. (ArunlalMokeri), Writer, Translator and Assistant Professor of English & Research Guide, Government College, Mokeri was the Resource Person. He has worked with the International Shakespearean Desk, Dublin, on Localizing Shakespeare. There were participants from different states of India and abroad.

Quoting a line from Albert Camus's 1947 allegorical novel, The Plague: "No longer were there individual destinies; only a collective destiny, made of plague and emotions shared by all." There is no pandemic without language and we are globally united by a pandemic COVID. Everyone is talking about social distancing, community spread, quarantine and isolation, break the chain, pandemics, lock downs and the like. These terms have become part and parcel of our lives just like mask and sanitizers. The webinar gave insights into the relationship between different pandemics and cultural lock downs and their impact on Literature.

On 29th June 2020, the Departments of English, Hindi and Malayalam and ALUMNAE Association jointly organized an National Webinar on “Reading: Art and Pleasure” as part of the Biblio Webinar Series observing the Reader’s Week. Dr. C.G. Shyamala, Assistant Professor and Research Guide, PG Department of English and Research Centre for Comparative Studies, Mercy College, Palakkad. There were participants from different states of India for the webinar.

The Resource Person highlighted that reading is both art and pleasure especially in the age of pandemics and she substantiated her thought by taking examples from literatures of the world. Some still think that reading books seems to be a dying art form in the midst of today’s dominant pleasurable activities which include watching movies, web series, games in OTT platforms, satellite television, YouTube and the like. But still some find reading as both pleasurable activity and art. The webinar highlighted the significance of reading as a pleasurable artistic experience
