Topic : Hi-tech Fish Farming Method and it's Principal

Department of Zoology has conducted a seminar on the topic "Hi-tech Fish Farming Method and it's Principle" on 24th March, 2023. The resource person was Dr. Vinu Jacob, M.Sc in Marine Biology, PhD in Biodiversity and Ecology of Deep Sea Mega fauna from CUSAT who is currently working as Assistant Fisheries Extension Officer in Regional Shrimp Hatchery, Department of Fisheries, Govt of Kerala, Azhikode, Thrissur. He has eight years of research experience in the field of deep-sea ecology, fisheries and biodiversity of megafauna and six years of working experience in the field of aquaculture, fresh water finfish hatchery, marine fish and shrimp hatchery. The session was from 1:30pm-3:00pm. It was an interactive session where he began the class by explaining the difference between aquaculture and other farming methods. Hi-tech aquaculture methods like Aquaponics, Re-circulatory Aquaculture System (RAS) and Biofloc were discussed in detail. The basic necessities of fish farming is the seed selection where he discussed about the commercially important species of Kerala. The feed of fish and maintaining water quality is very much important in aquaculture. The amount of dissolved oxygen in water and waste removal were also discussed. Waste was differentiated into two types particulate and dissolved. Particulate matter was removed by filtering were as dissolved were removed through a process called "Skimming". Biofloc pathway and Biofloc volume C:N ratio were also discussed.

Prayer was done by Drishya, II DC Representative, and Welcome speech by Nesni PJ, Association Secretary, Department of Zoology and Vote of thanks by Aashi Maria Babu, Class Representative of II DC Zoology.

OUTCOMES

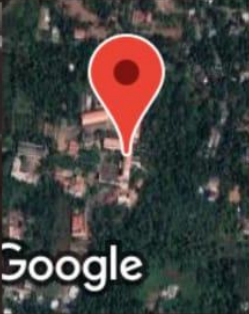

- Will be able to define basic features of aquaculture
- Express the importance of aquaculture
- Will be able to express problems in aquaculture
- Will be to make feed decision

TECHNOLOGY AWARENESS PROGRAMME

The department in collaboration with E-FUTUREX organized a technology awareness programme for the students on 03-03-2023 in the computer lab. The talk was based on the latest trending technologies in the IT industry. The session was very fruitful because the students could know about what is happening in the industry apart from their little knowledge via their university curriculum.

The programme gave an insight to the students on the trending technologies in the IT industry.

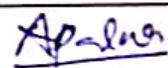

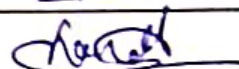

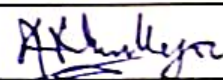

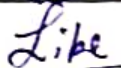

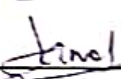

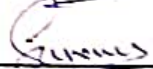

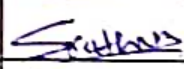

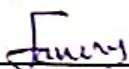

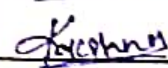

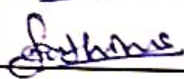

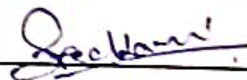

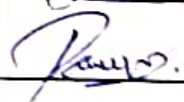

OUTCOME

1. Students got an awareness on the trending technologies in the IT industry.
2. In this era of technology being updated is the need of the time, so talks like these can motivate IT students to know more about their field.
